Stephen King unravels a haunting character when he reveals that Annie Wilkes is a notorious serial killer who just narrowly got away with it: killing over 31 elders and a handful of babies, along with neighbors, a cat, and a college dorm-mate, not to mention her husband and an unfortunate hitchhiker; by the end of the book she had also used a lawnmower and a crucifix to murder a young cop. Oh, and if you though the movies version of hobbling was gruesome, you know nothing child, nothing at all.
